Justice A. B. Tappen, County Judge Robert Cochrast Justice A. B. Tappen, County Judge Robert Cochrast and the Justices of Sessions.

In his charge to the Grand Jury Justice Tappen remarked that the present condition of the county jail was a matter to which he felt it his duty to direct their special attention, as the building was now prowded to over 10 mg. The accommodations for the confinement of prisoners had not kept pace with

At the time the jail was creeted it was designed to accommodate from thirty to forty prisoners, whereas nearly one hundred are now huddled together within its walls. The officers of the jall had exhausted some; but it was impossible to foresee the result of the present crowded condition of the inmates. In the construction of the jail no provision had been made for which necessity was of the utmost importance and one which public decency—public morality—demanded. Although it was not within the province of the grand inquest to order these improvements to be carried out, it was strictly within their line of duty to call the attention of the proper authorities of the county to the subject and urge the necessity of something neting done at once for the better accommodation of the immates of the jail who are entitled to it. The Court also suggested that workshops be established in connection with the jail, which could be employed for the benefit of the county and might deter many from willingly submitting to short terms of imprisonment in the jail, where they were ted and kept in ideness.

Among the most important cases now awaiting that are those of isage V. W. Bucknout, the Sicepy Hollow marderer, and that of Ja ob Leuenberger, who shot and maturly kined Frederica Meyer, his sweetheart, at Sing Sing, on the 14th of last February. Those charged with crimes of a lesser grade are Thomas Hogan, for alleged rape on a young colored girl; John McChimis, for setting fire to his atter's house, at New Rocheile, last week, besides several others, who stand committed for burglary and grand larceny.
